

Motivational Interviewing for Primary Care: Opioid Abuse/Misuse

ONLINE Training: Course 1a

Course Description

Learn about motivational interviewing methods and how to use this technique with patients who overuse or abuse opioids. MI can make these clinical interactions more positive, more collaborative, and more productive. In this course you will see examples of MI applied to discussions about opioid use/abuse in primary care. This course provides approximately 2 hours of content (2 hours of continuing nursing education credit). (Access to course available for completion for one month from initial enrollment.)

Target Audience: All health care professionals who work directly with patients will benefit from this program. This includes registered nurses, advanced practice nurses, physicians, physician assistants, pharmacists, dentists, physical therapists, occupational therapists, dietitians, health coaches, patient advocates, health educators, community health workers, and others who work with clients on issues related to health promotion and/or chronic illness.
